36,525,000 Cut In Budget Of Treasury and Post Office Department Is Recommended

Washington, March 16—(AP)—The house appropriations committee today recommended a $36,525,000 cut in next year's budget of the treasury and postoffice departments.

That represents a reduction of about 1.3 percent under the amount President Truman asked for the two departments for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The committee asked the house to cut that much from the $2,812,500 requested, applying $11,151,000 of the reduction to the treasury request for $597,251,000 and $25,374,000 to the $2,360,874,000 sought for the postoffice department.

There were no substantial reductions recommended for any of the subordinate bureaus and agencies which make up the two departments.

The bill will be debated by the house next Tuesday.

Compared with this year's appropriations for the two departments, the bill's total represents a cut of $88,021,800.

In addition to the cash in the bill, there is provided for the Treasury Department approximately $11,500,000 in so-called permanent appropriations and trust funds, the largest of which is $5,800,000 for interest on the national debt.

The committee approved the full $15,834,134 requested for printing of new currency. It noted that the supply of $1 bills has reached a dangerous low.

Funds were approved for 30 additional Bureau of Narcotics officers to fight the drug traffic.

The full $647,000 requested by the Justice Department was approved.

The committee noted that estimated postal revenues of $1,839,500,000 would leave the department a 1952 deficit of approximately $500,000,000. Part of this deficit, the committee said, may be cut by proposed postal rate increases.

After the warrant was served on 47-year-old Sollazzo, a spokesman for District Attorney Frank Hogan expressed hope that the deportation proceedings would be held in abeyance until after his trial in a state court and possible sentence.

Sollazzo, a jewel merchant and gambler, is held without bail on a bribery indictment. He is charged with bribing 11 players or former players of three New York colleges to fix basketball games in Madison Square Garden so he could clean up on bets.

NORTH EAST SCENE OF FATAL ACCIDENT

Erie, March 16—(AP)—An automobile collision on a slippery highway near North East killed Mrs. Evelyn Conaway, 20, of Brockton, Mass., and critically injured her husband.

Her husband, Wilbur, 21, is in semi-conscious condition at Hamot hospital. The truck driver suffered only minor injuries in the mishap yesterday.

RECEIVES DEGREE

Nema Glassman, daughter of attorney and Mrs. William I. Glassman, Fourth avenue, received her master's degree of science in botany today at the University of Chicago. She expects to be home for a few days visit next week before continuing her studies.

Two From Tidioute Hurt in Auto Crash

Two young Tidioute men were admitted to Warren General Hospital this morning following a one-car accident that occurred seven miles south of Warren on Route 62. State Police from the Warren barracks are continuing their investigation.

The operator of the car was William Konkle, aged 20, just recently returned from Korea, and one passenger, Charles Wilson, also 20. Wilson received lacerations of the chin and nose, and had x-rays taken of his left foot. Konkle also had x-rays of the chest and left hand.

Officers investigating the accident stated the driver fell asleep at the wheel and ran off the road, hitting a tree. The auto, a 1941 Ford, was completely demolished, police said.

Racketeer Who Defiantly Walked Out On Crime Committee Is Ordered to Return

New York, March 16—(AP)—Racketeer Frank Costello, who defiantly walked out of the senate crime committee hearings yesterday, as ordered to return this afternoon.

The big time gambler was told to come back or face arrest.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), chairman of the committee, said U. S. marshal would be sent to inform Costello of the ultimatum.

The new directive came after a physician reported Costello is able to testify.

The gambler, before he stomped it of the hearing room, had claimed he was ill, and unable to continue answering questions.

Dr. Vincent J. Panatieri said he had examined Costello and found him able to appear for a "reasonable" length of time.

It was on the basis of Dr. Panatieri's certificate, stating that Costello was suffering from acute rheumatism, that the gambler yesterday had declared his right to walk out.

On the basis of the doctor's testimony today, Kefauver said, "It appears that Mr. Costello is physically able to answer a certain number of questions for at least a week." He then issued the order for Costello's reappearance at 2 p.m. (EST).

Costello's rebellious departure threatened him with arrest on contempt charges.

New Pastor

Elected to the pastorate of Emmanuel Evangelical and Reformed church, Pennsylvania avenue east and Alson street, last November 12, the Rev. John A. Borger was formally installed in services held in the church last evening.

The service was in charge of the Rev. Merl Schiffman, of Trinity Evangelical and Reformed church at Gowanda, assisted by the Rev. Carl J. Zimmerman, Dunkirk, N. Y., superintendent of the Dunkirk Conference of the denomination; and Webster Sechrist, elder of the local parish.

Mr. and Mrs. Borger came to Warren on January 3, taking up residence in the Reformed church parsonage at 6 Alson street. They have one daughter, Mrs. Ned S. Wilson, Erie.

Rev. Borger, born at Palmerton, was graduated from Polytechnic Institute, a preparatory school then located at Gilbert, Pa.; received his bachelor of arts degree from Franklin and Marshall College at Lancaster; his bachelor of divinity degree in 1919 from Eastern Theological Seminary, also at Lancaster. He had also done added work at May Smith by use of booster lines. The home of Herbert Waite, Jackson Run road, was completely destroyed by fire about six o'clock this morning when a blaze started in the cellar as Mr. Waite was eating his breakfast preparatory to going to work. North Warren firemen, who responded with two trucks and about 20 men, were unable to save the home, although they prevented fire in an adjoining home owned by May Smith by use of booster lines. The home is located about one and one-quarter miles out of North Warren.

Motor Club Board Gives Safe Driving Campaign a Boost

At the March meeting of the board of governors of the Warren County Motor Club held at the Blue and White restaurant last evening with President A. A. Albaugh in charge, it was voted to donate $25 to the Junior Chamber of Commerce for the purpose and cooperate in every way in the forthcoming Jaycees Safe Driving Campaign.

Reports of officers showed that the present membership is 1681 as compared to 1454 as of March first, one year ago. It was announced that "direct mail" campaign for new members will be launched next month.

A report was received from the office of the district engineer regarding the agitation for a footwalk on the bridge spanning Kinzua creek in that village. The need of a new structure was stressed but it was intimated no definite action along this line will be taken pending a decision regarding the construction of the proposed Kinzua dam. It was stated that district officers recently inspected the bridge, and the campaign for a footwalk will be pressed.

The directors voted to have the club purchase three Series "E" Government Bonds of the $1,000 denomination.

Executive Secretary Mary Mac Corah reported an unusually busy month at the office in notarizing income tax statements, aiding members and non-members in the securing of operators' licenses and tags, etc.

AMUSEMENTS

GLENN FORD AND RHONDA FLEMING "THE REDHEAD AND THE COWBOY" NOW PLAYING AT THE COLUMBIA THEATRE

A gorgeous redhead, a rough and tumble cowboy and a sharpshooting secret agent are three of the major ingredients in Paramount's "The Redhead and The Cowboy," now playing at the Columbia Theatre. With a brisk, suspenseful plot, sweeping spectacle and all the action that the most avid adventure fan could ask for as additional constituents, this outdoor epic adds up to an unusually exciting piece of screen fare.

This rousing film pulls no punches as it depicts violence, love and intrigue in a historically authentic saga of the Old West. The New Mexico Territory is the locale and the period is the final year of the Civil War. A network of desperate Confederate agents is working to undermine the Union war effort, and the situation is further complicated by the activities of renegades, outlaws and deserters from both sides.

On the same bill a gay song-splashed hit loaded with laughter hit tunes and packed with cuties and romance "Rhythm Inn" starring Jane Frazee and Kirby Grant with the Rhythm Inn Dixieland Band.

A PRESIDENT OVERLOOKED

Research experts, digging into history, have unearthed evidence which indicates we have overlooked a president. Instead of 33 men holding the highest office in the land, we could, by virtue of a technicality, list 34.

As the "missing" President is also a Missourian, there is a doubt about President Truman's claim to fame as the first chief executive to hail from the "show-me" state.

The gentleman who has thus far been slighted by the historical record is David R. Atchison, senator from Missouri, 1843-55.

The main historical clue to Atchison's presidency is found in the 1913 edition of the Biographical Congressional Directory. The directory reveals that Atchison was president of the United States for one day.

According to the World Book Encyclopedia, President Polk's term expired on March 3rd at midnight. Zachary Taylor was not sworn in as president until March 5, 1849.

At that time there was no vice-president, and Atchison had claim to the presidency because he was president pro tem of the senate and next in line for the job.

Palms will be distributed Sunday in most churches in the community as well as in the nation and throughout the world, marking the beginning of Holy Week and the near approach of Easter. Palm Sunday is the day celebrating Christ's entry into Jerusalem, thus called because of the carrying of palms to place them in church, though the origin of the custom is obscure. It has an elaborate ceremonial in the Roman Catholic and Protestant Episcopal churches, and with it begins the mournful services of Passion Week.

We seem to recall from the not-too-distant past a movie or a play or something gaily labeled "Million Dollar Baby." But a lot of dollars have flowed under the bridge since then. A new show opened at a Broadway night club this month. The authors evidently keep a weather eye on economic affairs. The title: "Billion Dollar Baby."

Now that March 15th has passed for another year it is well to remember that the earlier you send in the tax return -- the sooner you receive a refund, in case you have one coming.

BETRAYED

Matthew 17:22

The name of Judas has met with derision in the years since the night of the betrayal in the Garden of Gethsemane some nineteen hundred years ago. It is a name which is not commonly used and to be called "Judas" is considered an insult by many. Any good which the unfaithful disciple may have done before that fateful night has been censored from the gospels because of his deed.

But the betrayal of Jesus did not end the act of Judas. Even in our day our Lord is betrayed and deserted by many. Across the seas nations long counted as Christian are following ways of life which are opposed to Jesus. The fact which makes this doubly sad is that many of the present day opponents of our Lord were numbered among His following. What could cause this modern betrayal?

Outright opposition and unbelief are the big reasons for betrayal of Christ. Such causes can be labeled for what they are. But there are more subtle ways of sending Christ to the cross anew. Our very indifference to Him can contribute to His modern betrayal. Our Lord said those who are not for Him are against Him. That would seem to be true in many countries today, ours among them. Christ and truth can never be cast aside where there is deep faith in Him and conviction about truth. Indifference is a deadly thing, spiritually and otherwise.

We can readily betray Christ by our lives, too. Of course confessing faith in Jesus as the Christ and then going in the opposite direction is connected with indifference very often. But making such a confession and then not following through brings Christ and His Church into disrepute. It is a form of betrayal.

Let us keep in mind that the betrayal of Jesus did not end in the days of Judas. It occurs today. Yet it is equally true that where there is real faith in Him as the redeeming Saviour betrayal does not take place.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor: (And the Blind Observer).

Yes, I will agree with you Robin is a thoroughbred and a pedigree Collie. Sired from Champions. The reason I am telling you this is not because of prestige or to try to educate an ignorant Observer. As for cleaning Robin, he or no other animal that is to be kept out in the open should not be bathed during the winter. As for his house the excisor and cedar shaving was changed a week before he passed away. The reason he was chained most of the time was because some of the neighbors would call up when he was on their property. The reason he was not kept inside was because we live in an apartment house and I don't believe the other tenants would appreciate it.

As for feeding, he was fed once a day which is sufficient for any animal that is not kept active.

As to what he passed away from I will not say, but if this Blind and ignorant Observer is so interested, would they please call the veterinarian, because we had an autopsy performed on him. I also wish to say if this Observer is a dog lover, I hope they never have a dog get the same disease as Robin got, after having him as long as we did, I think they would miss their dog as much as we miss Robin. As he was a gift.

The Dog Owner.

Editor Times-Mirror:

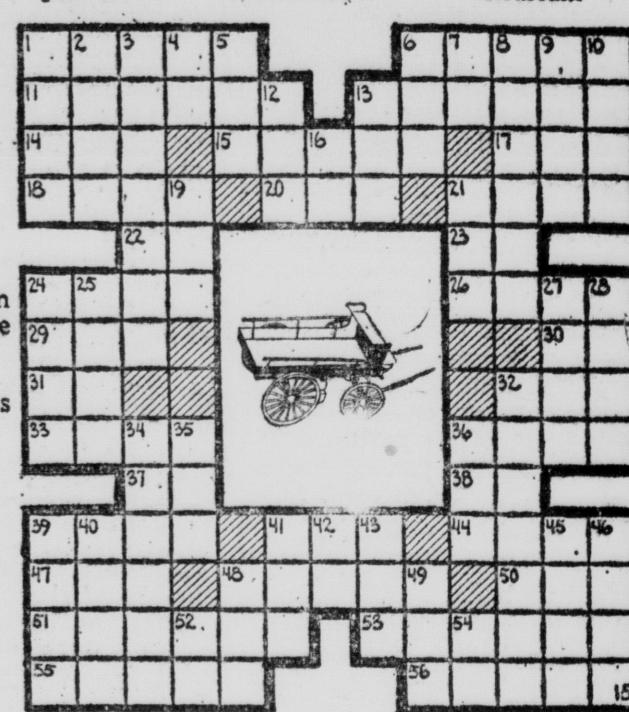

I read with a big lump in my throat about the fate of "Robin" the beautiful Collie who so recently was relieved of his suffering and monotony of life at the end of a chain. I realize there are many fine and beautiful animals who drag out their weary existence in this manner, simply because they are unable to plead for themselves. Why, oh why are such things permitted in our town or any town for that matter? When a lively, furry, lovable puppy happens by fate, to fall into the hands of an unfeeling owner, his doom is sealed and there he is forced to drag out his miserable existence days on end, in all kinds of weather at the end of a chain. Dogs were not meant for such an existence.

People privileged to own a fine dog, should not be allowed to treat it in so unfeeling a manner, and if they do not care for the dog, why torture it to death? For it is nothing but torture. So this letter is merely a plea to the people who own dogs, not to subject them to such treatment as poor Robin received. If one noble animal can be saved from such a fate through this letter, Robin will not have died in vain.

Dr. Richard H. Gerstell, one of the country's foremost atomic energy experts and a scientist who can explain the intricacies of atomic energy behavior in language the layman can completely understand, will be heard in a special Mutual network broadcast on Friday, Mar. 16, from 9:30 to 10 p. m. on WNAE-FM. He will be introduced to the MBS radio audience by Millard Caldwell, director of the Federal Civil Defense Administration.

Dr. Gerstell, author of the book "How To Survive The Atomic Bomb," was Senior Radiological Safety Monitor at Bikini while on active duty with the Navy. And his MBS address will be broadcast at a time when the federal Civil Defense organization is distributing its latest atomic safeguarding literature to the general public.

The broadcast is another in the continuing Mutual network defense. The scientist's remarks for the Mar. 16 program were specially recorded by MBS after the Frenchman's Flat, Nev., atomic bomb experiments and have been cleared and approved for broadcast both by the Department of Defense and Mr. Caldwell's department.

He will tell, in this broadcast, what citizens can and cannot do in the event of an atomic attack. And he has keyed his remarks to offset the "scare phobias" created by laymen's apprehensiveness from information already revealed by the country's defense experts.

After a rather prolonged break-down last week-end, WNAE-FM seems to be operating much better for some reason. The break-down necessitated an almost complete overhaul that seems to have improved the signal considerably in many parts of town.

The St. Patrick's Day special at the Gulfstream Park track in Florida, the "Gulfstream Park Handicap", will be described by "Red Cap" racecaster Bryan Field over the Mutual network on Saturday, Mar. 17, 4:30 to 4:45 p. m., on WNAE-FM. SHIRRED EGGS baked in butter, cheese, and cream, hot buttered scones and lemon curd, a delicious English preserve—how does that sound for a dairy farm Easter breakfast?

The scones can be made the day before and reheated in the oven while eggs are baking.

Scones

Two cups flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup butter, 1 egg yolk, ½ cup light cream, 1 egg white.

Sift together flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening. Beat egg yolk with cream, and add to dry ingredients. Mix into dough, roll out ½ inch thick and cut in 2-inch triangles. Place on baking sheet. Beat egg white slightly, brush on scones and sprinkle with remaining sugar. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 15 minutes. Serve hot.

Lemon Curd

(Makes 2 cups)

One-half cup butter, ½ cup sugar, 2 lemons, 2 eggs.

Melt butter and sugar in top of double boiler. Add rind and juice of lemons. Beat eggs and stir until thick and smooth. Pour into a hot jar and leave to set.

Shirred Eggs in Cheese

(Serves 6)

Six eggs, ½ pound finely grated cheese, ¼ cup butter, salt and pepper, ¼ cup cream, ½ teaspoon dry mustard.

Sprinkle cheese over bottom of a shallow buttered baking dish or individual ramekins. Dot with pieces of butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Break eggs one at a time over the cheese. Mix cream with mustard and pour over eggs. Bake in a moderately hot oven (350 degrees F.) about 15 minutes until whites are set. Serve immediately.

Official of Dept of Forests and Waters ives Interesting Program to Sportsmen

Bill Smith, Assistant Chief of the Division of Protection, Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, gave local sportsmen an excellent idea of what it's all about at the Warren Field & Cream Club's March meeting held Tuesday in the Irvindale School. Sportsmen were told and, through the medium of an excellent motion picture which make up a condition in the Forests so they will burn with greater or lesser intensity depending on those conditions. Conditions which create periods of high hazard are: low humidity (dry air), a long period since a rainfall, dryness of wood (which varies with the year as well as with the two previous mentioned conditions) and high wind. Low hazard conditions are just the opposite. Mr. Smith explained the organization which in Pennsylvania is today doing such a fine job of fighting fires once they have been started, which organization is exemplified by the local District Office in the old Post Office Building under the direction of Tony Vogler, District Forester. From his district office the fire towers are manned, fire wardens are trained, equipment and tools for fighting fires are maintained for instant use. Jay Pees and his forestry fire fighting truck are perhaps locally the best known combination in this service but he is supported by a small army of trained fire fighters should need for them arise. The excellence of local work can, perhaps, best be shown by the area burned in Warren County last year. It was 34 acres—which is extremely low considering that the County consists of several hundred thousand acres of woodland.

It was pointed out that though the tendency has been toward more fires each year due to the greater use of our forests and the carelessness of those who use them, due to improved fire fighting methods and equipment the area burned each year has shown a steady decrease. Obviously the first consideration of the Department is to educate all of the people to PREVENT fires. Second consideration is getting them put out QUICKLY.

Local people who wish to burn off grass, brushland, etc. are encouraged to contact the local office of the Department of Forests and Waters for guidance in their projects. In this manner forest fires can many times be prevented state-wide, almost one-fifth of the forest fires have been started by this type of burning. Unfortunately half of the fires are still caused by carelessness.

Ross Bailey was on hand to report on the Spring trout stocking program and he told the boys where he had placed 33,350 trout. Ross stated that the trout he had received this Spring were the finest fish he had ever had.

In the business meeting the Club voted to insure their property, appropriate additional money for the prizes for the membership contest, and voted on several bills currently being considered in Harrisburg which bills would effect the work of the Game and/or Fish commissions. Pretty generally (and certainly to the credit of local sportsmen) they favored legislation which in their opinion would make the efforts of the Commissions more effective and opposed legislation which tended to take away the powers of either commission and place them elsewhere.

An example of the latter would be House Bill 144. This bill would make it MANDATORY for the Game Commission to pay a bounty of not less than $4 on each fox killed. Though local sportsmen favor a bounty on fox they are unanimously opposed to the bill since it takes the commission's power to make the decision from the sportsmen and gives it to the legislature.

THE WAY TO CALVARY

After the elders decided Jesus must die, they took Him to Pilate to be sentenced according to law. The Roman government discerned the envy behind their action and tried to evade passing judgment. Questioning Jesus, he learned He was a Galilean.

Galileans under Herod's jurisdiction, Pilate sent the Nazarene to the tetrarch who happened to be in Jerusalem. Herod tried to joke with the Savior, and asked for a miracle. Jesus was silent. Finally Herod mockingly arrayed Jesus in a gorgeous robe and sent him back to Pilate.

Pilate tried again to assuage the crowd. When he offered them the choice of freedom for Barabbas, a murderer and seditionist, or Jesus, they cried for the release of Barabbas and crucifixion for Jesus. Pilate then washed his hands, saying, "I am innocent of the blood of this just man: look ye to it."

Pilate Washes His Hands

A FIEND IN NEED

By MILTON K. OZAKI

Chapter 29

"ALL of you are here," he began, "to witness the final episode in a series of abnormal and complicated events. I requested your presence, through the agency of Lieutenant Phelan, for the reason that each of you has either been suspected of murdering Lawrence Straw and John Niles Thomson at some point in this investigation, or have, in most cases unconsciously, played an important part in the solution of the crime."

His eyes moved from person to person, resting on each for a moment like a friendly greeting. There were six chairs in each of the two semicircles. In the front row, beginning at Caldwell's left, were Lloyd Dougle, Bertha Dougle, Richard Starr Flecker, the chair reserved for John Faraday, Don McGregor, and Lieutenant Phelan. In the second row, were Maud McGregor, June Hanson, Elaine Ruhl, Charles Edelson, Dick Trask, and myself. When his eyes had completed their circuit of the chairs, they returned to the one reserved for Faraday. Caldwell stared at it long and soberly.

"I regret to say," I said gravely, "that the man I most desired to see here this evening, John Faraday, is apparently unavailable." He raised his eyes and looked at Sergeant Jenkins, who lounged in the doorway. "There hasn't been any further word about Mr. Faraday, Sergeant?"

"No, sir."

Caldwell shook his head regretfully. "I'm afraid we may never see John Faraday again."

"We'll find him," Phelan growled. Jenkins nodded in agreement, but Caldwell continued to shake his head, as though he had considered their attitude and found it erroneous.

Streams which have received a quota of fish include the Little Brokenstraw, Blue Eye, Spring Creek, Whitney Run, East Branch, Tidioute, Ben George, and Arcade creeks, Maguire, Lamb, McGee and Wilson Runs, Four Mile, Six Mile, Brown Run, both the east and south branches of the Tionesta, and Chapman Dam lake.

"I think we may attribute Faraday's money-making ability to the fact that he had the intelligence to understand the desires of a certain stratum of our society—and also had the imaginative ability to satisfy them. I refer, of course, to the pseudo-intellectuals, the sexually illustrated and unfit, the bawdy-minded, the poorly adjusted dilettantes who, for lack of emotional balance and experience, confuse sex with art and attempt to blend the two into a whole. The desires to which I refer are those of the poorly informed, the little experienced, who excuse pornography as a natural art form, and who date on Elizabethan literature because of its frank treatment of sex. These people seek to excuse their low-mindedness by confusing the basic issues and attempting to raise it to the level of acceptable art the sexually stimulating literature of a decadent past."

Caldwell spread his hands dramatically. "Faraday pandered to those desires by causing to be printed, contrary to law but at slight personal risk, a number of volumes of literary classics, each generously illustrated with pornographic photographs. There's no way for us to know how many editions he printed and distributed, but it probably amounted to a considerable number for, at fifteen, twenty, and twenty-five dollars per copy, he managed to amass a small fortune."

"Unfortunately for Faraday, as his business began to expand in size and scope, it required the services of other people. Government supervision became more and more stringent, and, as the need for an accountant became necessary, Lawrence Straw became his associate. And Straw, being as clever and greedy and unscrupulous as Faraday himself, soon realized the potentialities of the business, and, what is more, the peculiarly vulnerable position of Faraday. Little by little, he insinuated himself into the business, eventually becoming an officer of the corporation. Not satisfied with that, his demands became more and more unreasonable, until Faraday realized that if he was to enjoy the comfortable niche he had created, Straw would have to be killed."

On winning the opening lead with the king of hearts, South led a trump to the king in the hope that West had a singleton honor or the doubleton queen-jack. Since neither was the case he had to lose a trump trick."

"Was South justified in jumping to four clubs? Was North then justified in using the Blackwood convention? Who was the chief culprit?"

Style Shop Victorious Over Youngsville to Tie Standing

The Youngsville Merchants and the Ramblers wound up their 1950-51 season unsuccessfully in Y City League games last night, dropping respective 64-55 and 46-42 scores to the Style Shop and Rockets.

Style Shop's triumph places them back into a two-way tie for first place with Atlantic again, both teams having a 8-1 record this half. Monday winds up the regular schedule, the Style Shop playing the New Process and Atlantic the Rockets. Wins for the two league leaders would mean a single game playoff for the half on next Thursday, and then a best out of three series if Atlantic should win.

The one likely upset would be the Rockets over Atlantic, and in such a case the Style Shop would automatically take the championship.

In last night's action the Rockets built up a 26-16 half-time lead, but had it cut to four points by the end of the third stanza as the Ramblers made a fast comeback. Early in the final period the Ramblers pulled past the Rockets 36-35, until Bob Reese scored a free throw that tied it up. From then on the visitors stayed in front all the way, scoring breaking even 11 all.

High men for the losers were Dan Jackson and Bill Tanner with 13 and 1, Chuck Irvin and Jim Peterson having 16 and 12 respectively for the Ramblers.

"Stud" Simpson led the Stylists in their fifth straight victory with 18 counters, to take scoring honors for the night. Jack White also had a high 16 for the Style Shop, while Dick Spencer slipped in 10 for the Merchants.

The Merchants held the Style Shop to a 12-11 opening score, but the tide quickly changed by intermission, 29-15. Youngsville unable to score over four points. Scoring was an even 10-10 in the third quarter, then the winners poured it on 25-10 to close with a 28 point margin.
